

Pulks

Plastic
Pulks

Kevlar
Pulks

Sleds

Tents

Rescue

Clothing

2006 Goliath Expedition.

In 1998 Karl Bushby started walking from the Southern tip of South America, and, by 2005, with an American Dimitri Kieffer, he had reached the Bering Strait, between Alaska and Russia. Snowsled supplied his 'North Pole' pulks for the winter journey up through Alaska to Cape Prince of Wales, and for the awesome crossing of the moving pack-ice to Russia in March 2006.

2007, March.

Stefano Miglietti from Italy, won the Yukon Ultra 300 mile race in Whitehorse, Canada, using a Snowsled Ice Blue plastic sled.

2008. 2300 Kms South to North traverse of Greenland Icecap

Using kites and Snowsled 'Ice Blue' plastic pulks. The small French party of three led by Michael Charavin completed the journey in 31 days.

2009. Norwegian Polar Institute.

Snowsled was commissioned to make a large komatik sled (4.5 m long X 2.2 m wide), to support a small 'magnetics' hut during their 2200 Kms traverse in Antarctica.

2009. March. Chris Todd

Chris Todd from the UK, won the 6633 Arctic Ultra 350 mile race in Yukon, Canada, using a Snowsled Ice Blue plastic sled and wheel system. These wheeled pulks have become a standard piece of equipment for this race ever since.

Photo Martin Like. www.6633ultra.com